

Here are the top five reasons why someone should take a group of young people to the National Catholic Youth Conference (NCYC):

1. Deepen Their Faith Journey

NCYC provides young people with an unparalleled opportunity to connect with their Catholic faith through dynamic worship experiences, powerful speakers, and meaningful prayer. The vibrant liturgies, adoration, and personal testimonies help participants experience the beauty and depth of their relationship with God.

2. Build a Stronger Community

Attending NCYC as a group fosters a sense of unity and belonging. Whether it's during travel, small group discussions, or shared activities, the experience strengthens relationships among peers and creates lasting memories that deepen bonds within the parish or school community.

3. Experience the Universal Church

Being surrounded by thousands of young Catholics from across the country helps participants realize they are part of a much larger, diverse, and vibrant Church. This communal experience fosters a sense of solidarity and inspires them to see themselves as part of the global Catholic family.

4. Empower Young People for Mission

NCYC equips young people with the tools and inspiration to become leaders in their faith communities. The sessions and workshops address real-world challenges, providing them with the confidence and practical skills to live out their Catholic identity and make a difference in their world.

5. Inspire Lifelong Faith Formation

The energy, joy, and transformative encounters at NCYC often become a turning point in the lives of attendees. These experiences help spark a desire for ongoing faith formation, encouraging young people to remain active in the Church as they grow into adulthood.
